

THE UNLOVED

Name: _____

You are _____ but _____

You feel an Affinity with _____

because _____

You feel Enmity towards _____

because _____

You're in Hell because you have been forgotten. You can't feel any flowers on your grave. Why is it so cold down here? You want the comfort of other humans, but not like this. You need help.

When you visit a house, you will ask questions with regard to its common areas and potential gathering points. There must be some way to build a community, and you will find it.

At some point, you will likely take your own personal journey through the house. Leave the group, run your fingers along the walls. Then wonder why no one is paying any attention to you anyway.

When you get irritated with another Recently deceased, remind them that they were once part of a family, one that loved them, and why can't they understand that they are only thinking about themselves?

At the Estate auction, you are most likely to trade some measure of your self-awareness for a house. It doesn't do you any good. You want to only think of others. You believe it will be an actual auction, and not an arbitrary decision on the part of Hell's realtor.