

OUTGOING CALLS

► Railway Police dispatcher: Hello. Captain Danesi, what train should I put you in contact with? We've alerted all officers on duty to the situation. I need to know the destination and time of departure from Rome Termini Station.

Correct answer: Milan. 15:30.

► Railway Police agent: Hello. Captain Danesi, this is Officer Granato of the Railway Police force, on duty on High-speed Electric Train 300 "Settebello". I've been briefed on the suspects and ordered to keep the train on the usual route without cancelling any stops, in case the terrorists are watching us. But I've got no anomalies to report on our side. If you can point me to the train car and seat where you suspect the device is hidden, I'll check it out quickly and discreetly.

Correct answer: Car 12. Seat 25.

► Railway Police agent: Hello. Captain Danesi, I've found the suitcase where you said it was. I have it here in the cab. None of the passengers recognised it for what it was. I... I can't hear it ticking... I don't know if it should be ticking. I forgot to ask the bomb disposal guys. They told me not to pry it open, it might be rigged to blow. Do you have the combination? It should be four digits long.

Correct answer: 1933.

Railway Police agent: Holy sh... Sorry. It's open. It's a bomb all right. I'll hang up and get in touch with bomb disposal to defuse this thing.

The case is solved! Now the thread of tension can unravel. The detective's player must stop the video or timer. They can end the game with the criminal currently in the room, or ask one of the others to come in instead. If they want to release one of the suspects, the detective must call that criminal to the office and play through one last phone call, like before. Then it's time to dismiss the freed criminal, and announce the end of the game to the other two.

► Questore of Rome: Hello. Danesi, excellent work! The device has been disarmed and the train got to the end of the line safe and sound. We're still on the hunt for Etro's accomplices and I want you on the case. Come again? You promised a pardon to one of the robbers? Very well... Give me the name.

