

[illegible]

INNOCENT

You didn't do it. You were unjustly sentenced and now this place is eating at your life day after day. There's nobody here who doesn't blame their misfortunes on violent cops, corrupt lawyers or an underhanded twist of fate. Everybody's innocent in their words, but you have facts on your side. And nobody wants to believe you: Your truth has been archived like a stack of old papers.

You're no criminal, what job or passion did you define yourself by?
Is there somebody out there who keeps fighting for your truth?
Do you think you're better than the other inmates?